

EARLY MORNING RUN

A silver circle of peace
Shown down along the lane
And for a moment or two I caught its smiling image Bouncing along through motionless waters
As I ran by.
A whisper of angel hair sprinkled with glitter Lay like a carpet beneath this Lord of the sky.
The thin blanket of fog shivered
Above the fields Drawing the light from an Overflowing lunar face,
And spreading the borrowed glow
From horizon to horizon Shimmering white beans capped the metal dome
Of a massive barnyard spire,
And silouetted a curious animal Within its barbed boundary
I appeared to be the only one disturbng this pre-dawn masterpiece.
Yet my intrusion was but another stroke of life
Flowing from the hand of God.

The Way Corps

TENDERNESS

Tenderly He watches over you Ev'ry step, ev'ry mile of the way.

"Mystery has melted our hearts in the Way Corps."
Donnie Fugit

"We must increase our believing toward one another to the extent we share our hearts and needs with one another at anytime within the Corps. Such believing generates tenderness."
Jim Pisani

"Tenderness between people is the living Word."
Carole Pisani

"Nothing can bring you peace, but the triumph of principles."
Ralph Waldo Emerson

"Tenderness can be the touch of a hand, or, it can be in the gentleness of a spoken word.
You can see it in the light of the eye, but it can only be seen outwardly when the Love of God reigns inside."
Terri Parker

"For a long time the phrase, "the love of God in the renewed mind in manifestation" went completely past my head. Now I'm seeing it bigger. The love of God is renewed mind on the principles of the Word. It's the Word being applied-obedience. That's why we can divorce our ministering from emotion that's unbridled.
That's why Dr. Wierwille can reprove and correct us with great gusto one moment, and the next moment be showing us the tenderest love. We must be able to shift that quickly as leaders. If it's the Word, it's easy."

Sally Martin

"I look at the Corps as a flower bed. I'm in love with the Corps."
Chuck Dietlin

"To travel light is to have no bitterness. This is when we meet others' needs."
Foster Smith

"You're just my kids. I wouldn't trade you for a whole barrel of wooden nickles."
Bill Standage

STAYED MIND

REV. CUMMINS

He maketh the storm a calm, so that the waves thereof are still. Then are they glad because they be quiet; so he bringeth them unto their desired haven.

Psalms 107:29, 30

"When a man can be beaten beyond measure, and tortured insufferably bearing pain for one and a half days, still having a joy before Him, stayed mind has to be the most positive action after Rom. 10:9, 10."

Ray Weidenhamer

"Stayed mind is just another word for repeated giving, and giving equals receiving." Nik

"Stayed mind is the absolute absence of confusion between the ears." Jerry Pfeiffer

"It makes my day more peaceful."
Ladd Hastings

"You can accomplish more in seven minutes with stayed mind concentration, than seven hours of spaced mind contemplation,"

Joe Fair

"If you find yourself stagnant or bored, or depressed, start filling your mind with people rather than things." Howie Yeremian Jr.

"Most people stand with both feet on the hose and when someone tells them to take their feet off, they take one foot off and leave one on. TAKE BOTH FEET OFF!!

"The greatest research you can do is to take what you've learned and apply it, utilize it in your life."

"You've heard Dr. Wierwille say:
'We don't have a text to document it, but someday we'll find it.', and that's what I was looking for, and sure enough, I found it."

"And we all agreed with Rev.
Cummins when he so boldly stated, 'But of course there's nothing like the flesh.'"

From

Bumble
Bee-lievers

"With the work I did, there was plenty of time alone with myself and the Father. I realized, as a result, the great profit and importance in taking time to be alone with Father."

Brenda Rhodes

"Working at Emporia was an excellent opportunity for me to share my heart and life with the beautiful Saints on the staff, because of my growth here in the Corps."

Barb Standage

"I found that God's love and truth in our hearts can build friendships in a few days that it would take people in the world 20 years to build."

Diana Catena

"Working at Emporia showed me how sons of God can take a mere shell or anything that natural man has done, and transform it into a genuine haven of God's peace and beauty."

Tom Knupp

"Believing to receive from God presupposes a willingness to obey."

Tom Reahard

My Dearest Father God,

This is the end of another beautiful day. I am taking the time to put my thoughts on paper as I think of you. You always know my heart, of course, much more than I do. But somehow it's pleasant to speak to you this way.

You might have noticed that Spring has sprung. Everything is so beautiful Father - there is no place like this one where every blade of grass and every fragrant bud is blessed by your loving hand. My brothers and sisters have waited expectantly through this long winter season; just for the time where we could feel the sun on their shoulders and look up and see the trees full of leaves - just to walk on the grass with someone and say "I love you".

My thoughts turn to your Word - about Jonathan and David. How they must have loved one another in that bond of friendship only your love can bring. Maybe they had a special spot underneath the apple trees or in the woods - or maybe they walked along and picked flowers for an early morning breakfast table. I wish I could express how much I love my brothers and sisters here - and how beautiful their hearts are - because of your Son inside - they are so precious. Each one belongs to you as I do - and we are all in the lost and found of your love.

So I thank you tonight for everything - and please bless 'em all real good.

Good Night
I love you,
Bev
