I Thessalonians

Five: Sixteen:

rejoice ever more
rejoice ever more
rejoice ever more

"Adverse conditions are no excuse for failure to rejoice."
Dr. Victor Paul Wierwille

"Laughter is a sound put to joy. Joy magnifies God."
Rev. John Lynn

"Problems are a sort of perplexity and vexation, according to Webster's dictionary. But when we renew our minds to the Word, these problems are short-lived. You don't want to stay in a negative state because if you do, you're the loser."

Mrs. Victor Paul Wierwille

"Anybody's a creep who walks by sight and not by believing. By creep, I mean they're living second-rate. Circumstances are so misleading. It's always a road to oblivion, spiritually. If you're ever going to get off that road, you have to get back to believing."

Rev. L. Craig Martindale

"The power of God is the Word of God believed."

Ralph Dubofsky

"You just don't quit when you're believing for something, no matter what the circumstances say. True winners never quit. God will always bring results to pass in your life. God will never stop coming through for you because He loves you. He will do whatever it takes to bless your life--whether it's something really big or something insignificant. There's no mountain too big for God to climb."

Brenda Rhodes, Fifth Corps

"To continue in God's Word will develop discipline in your life. We're in a training session. To the degree we latch on to the discipline of God's Word, we will manifest the freedom of that Word. All true champions respond to that disciplined freedom. That's why we're here. We responded. We do the things we have to do before they have to be done. Then we have the freedom to do the things we want to do."

Franklin Smith, Fifth Corps

PFAL '77

A mystery bolt broke the dark scarred skies
In fiery brilliance setting twelve ablaze;
Naked man, long fallen in the fury of lies
Arose in woven tapestries of royal rays;
Enduring diamonds clothed amazed men once lost
In rich array at the day of Pentecost.

Now the mystery shatters another black night,
And God's fire kindles new hearts aglow;
Once buried in the ages of poverty and fright
An ancient treasure glitters in the awesome show.
And there, unsheathed in glory, shines a jeweled sword
And a man wielding crystal-clear words of the Lord.
Couched in God's gracious giving, a gem set in heaven:
"Power For Abundant Living, Seventy-Seven!"

Ken La Prade, Seventh Corps

"The Word of God is the foundation of the balanced walk.
It's what elucidates that balance for us. The love of God is the fulcrum to the balance. It's what enables us to become Word-oriented, not walk-oriented."

Allen Hamilton, Fifth Corps

"Compared to God, the Devil is stupid. He doesn't know everything. Compared to us sometimes, he's smarter than a whip. We've got to get God's 'smarts.'"

Rev. L. Craig Martindale

"Anything you want to master in your life takes work.
I've heard Dr. Wierwille say he had to drive the Word over and over again in his mind until he believed it."

Nancy Friedman, Fifth Corps

"To sink your heart into the heart of God's Word is the price you pay for leadership."

Franklin Smith, Fifth Corps

CORRECTION: The originator of the quote on the top left inside page of the last Heartbeat Bulletin (Vol. 3 No. 32) is Rev. John Lynn.

"The ultimate survival of our country tomorrow depends upon the strength of our families today."

Dave Standage

"The most important Twig fellowship I have is my family."

Quoted from Rev. Earl Burton

"Husbands and wives, as Christians, can reign in life together as they renew their minds. Their prayers will not be hindered."

Dana Standage

"The best blessing for any husband is to see his wife stand boldly on the Word."

Dave Standage

"When it comes to marriage, it's not so much finding the right person; it's being the right person."

Dana Standage

"We owe it to our parents to love them because they put up with us for so long. The neatest thing you can do is to write them occasionally and share your heart with them."

Dave Standage
